

Overview

Fox Advancement's fractional development support places seasoned fundraising professionals in interim positions. Fractional support is an excellent option for nonprofits that have recently lost a development leader (such as a Vice President of Development or Development Director) and need someone to manage day-to-day operations until a full-time staff member is hired. Fractional support reduces stress for nonprofits, provides valuable external perspective on development processes, and allows organizations to implement a thoughtful hiring process focused on securing the right candidate.

Working with Fox Advancement

Through fractional development support Fox Advancement offers the following to nonprofit organizations:

- Access to a seasoned professional:

Fox Advancement has a pool of seasoned development professionals, many of whom are former nonprofit Executive Directors or Development Directors. For 10-20 hours per week (or more!), organizations can have access to top talent to achieve development goals.

- Ability to set priorities:

Fractional support is not a “one size fits all” approach. Your fractional professional will work with you to determine the top priorities to achieve during the contract period. You may want to bolster your individual gifts program, prepare for an upcoming event, write clear and concise standard operating procedures for your development department, or create a clear onboarding plan for a full-time professional. Your fractional professional will develop an actionable plan to reach whatever goals are mission-critical for your organization.

- Flexibility:

Fractional support is designed to be flexible. When you are ready to hire a full-time staff person, your fractional person can exit or overlap with your new staff member to provide a seamless transition.

- Impact:

Your fractional support professional is solely focused on fundraising activities. Our consultants are accustomed to quickly assessing situations, making a plan, and executing solutions for clients.
